

THE WRANGELL SENTINEL

VOLUME 9, NUMBER 4,

WRANGELL, ALASKA, THURSDAY, JANUARY 26, 1911

$2.50 PER YEAR, 10c. PER COPY

Customs House Figures

The report of the Juneau customs office, covering the whole of Alaska for 1910 were made public recently.

According to it, merchandise shipped from the states to Alaska in 1910 amounted to $17,917,083 as compared with $18,923,887 in the year previous. The foreign goods shipped in was practically the same as that of the year before, $668,614. In merchandise, chiefly fish and fur, there went from Alaska to the states, $13,690,955, and gold and other metals to the sum of $15,195,954 was sent out.

The character and value of the exports of the past two years, in almost every instance show a small falling off. This is explained by the report to be due to the fact that "as the district produces but few items of the necessities of man kind, and the population remaining practically stationary, the only cause which can bring about an unusual increase of the general business of one year over another are the installation of new enterprises and increased production of precious metals or fish products. The completion of such installations or a falling off of such products will cause a decrease."

The report says 24,780 people arrived in the ports of southeastern, southern and western Alaska. At Nome and Bering sea the number was 2,156, while from the former ports 19,905 and from the latter 4,075 departed.

Trouble For The Chink

Sarah McCullough, a Petersburg native girl created quite a stir in Portland, Ore., recently. It appears that she became interested in the Chinese boss of the Petersburg cannery and followed him to Portland at the close of the canning season. The Chinaman offered to marry the girl upon her arrival at the "Webfoot" metropolis but as she was already married, he couldn't. The authorities at Portland took the matter up about this stage of the game, and Sam had to dig up the money for her fare back to Petersburg in a hurry to escape prosecution.

Firemen Will Dance

The local firemen will be the hosts of a dance on the evening of Washington's Birthday, February 22nd. They are making all the necessary arrangements to insure everybody's enjoying himself. Good music will be on tap of course and provision is made for the "old stiff" who don't dance to play cards up stairs, and besides a first class supper will be served.

Peter Gets Stung

Wrangell's first mayor, the Hon. Peter C. Jensen, is, according to Pat Loftus, playing in rather hard luck of late. It appears that he put quite a bit of cash into a real estate deal down on the Sound, and when the smoke had cleared away, Peter discovered himself holding the empty sack, while his erst-while partner, the real estate man, had the cash. But Pat says that in spite of his hard luck, Peter still has his cherubic smile.

Improve Lincoln Rock Light

The Senate committee has reported favorably on the appropriation of $25,000 for the improvement of the lighthouse at Lincoln Rock. After the accident to the light a little over a year ago, the need of changes in the lighthouse were apparent. The present plans call for raising the entire structure high enough to put it above the sweep of the waves, which on several occasions in the past have swept clear over the structure; and during November, 1909, it will be remembered, smashed in the walls of the lower part washing away the supplies and for a time threatening to overthrow the entire building.

Fishing Sloop Wrecked

Word reached town Tuesday, of the wreck on Tuesday, January 10, of the fishing sloop Wilma. The accident occurred at Turnabout island, about twelve miles from Cape Bendel, and five miles from Johnson's "dry dock." Particulars are hard to get, outside of the bare fact that the boat, which was built at the old Pt. Girard cannery by Liedtky and Feller, was a total loss, and that Liedtky, who was in command of the boat, in a fit of temporary insanity brought on no doubt by the exposure he had undergone, had left the two men constituting the Wilma's crew, and had wandered away into the woods. The other two men reached Petersburg after a terrible trip, being several days on the way, and reported the matter to the authorities there. The fishing boat Baldy was dispatched to the point where Liedtky had last been seen and later the revenue cutter Rush joined in the search.

There seems to little possibility that Liedtky can have survived the severe weather of the past two weeks, but must have succumbed unless he got over the mountain to Kake Indian village.

Later—The Rush reports all hope given up at Petersburg.

Chicago Hits Rock

On her last trip south, the steam fishing boat Chicago struck a reef south of Ketchikan, and was held hard and fast until the arrival of the Bertha, which was summoned by wireless. The latter vessel pulled her off without much trouble, and she then proceeded to Seattle for repairs. She had about 40,000 pounds of halibut on on board at the time.

Dispose of Marble Property

Pat Loftus, who recently arrived from Vancouver, B. C., brings the news that Woodbridge & Lowery had disposed of their latest find in the marble line to British capitalists. The marble, which is highly colored, takes on a fine polish and will make first class interior finishing.

Returns Minus Mustache

Frank Cheney was a passenger north to Wrangell on the Jefferson this week from Seattle. His appearance was somewhat of a surprise to his friends as he shaved off that auburn mustache of his and now appears as quite a young fellow. He reports leaving Mrs Cheney visiting friends and relatives on the Sound, but she will return north in April. Frank will go on a trapping—hunting trip with Charley Olson as soon as the latter returns to town.

Halibut hooks, leaders, swivels, etc., at Patenaudes.

Webster's NEW INTERNATIONAL Dictionary, (G. & C. Merriam Co., Springfield, Mass.) surpasses the old International as much as that book exceeded its predecessor. On the old foundation a new superstructure has been built. The reconstruction has been carried on through many years by a large force of trained workers, under the supervision of Dr. W. T. Harris, former United States Commissioner of Education, and reinforced by many eminent specialists. The definitions have been rearranged and amplified. The number of terms defined has been more than doubled. The etymology, synonyms, pronunciation, have received unsparing scholarly labor. The language of English literature for over seven centuries, the terminology of the arts and sciences, and the every-day speech of street, shop, and household, are presented with fullness and clearness. In size of vocabulary, in richness of general information, and in convenience of consultation, the book sets a new mark in lexicography.

THE thief comes prepared—prepared to take your valuables. Carries the necessary tools. Is expert in their use. One of his tools is the revolver. In plain words, he is prepared to take your life. His deadly intent and expertness makes up for his revolver's awkwardness and slowness.

You have neither expertness or deadly intent. You cannot afford to stake everything upon a wrist-straining, trigger-flinching, slow-as-molasses firearm. Settle this matter to-day for the sake of your family. Get the Savage automatic. The only gun that points straight, shoots true, fires fast, without practice. It is the only gun you can shoot straight any time you pick it up. Tired Of Being "Dunn"

Capt. "Kidd" is tired of being "Dunn" in the engine line, so he has decided to sell the engine he has in his battleship, and will replace it with a six h. p. Fisherman, which he has ordered from the City Store. Donald Sinclair says he now has the agency for the two best engines made in their respective lines—the Fairbanks Morse two cycle, and the Fisherman. The sterling qualities of the former machine were demonstrated recently when A. H. Laurence installed a 6 horsepower in his sloop. He lined it up, connected the piping, filled the tank, turned on the oil, primed her a little and off the engine went on the very first turn of the wheel. And that's a record that would be hard to beat.

Ole Johnson has gone to Bell Island Hot Springs. During the past few months the old fracture of his leg has been bothering him.

DOC. COOK

"Doc." Cook, who didn't find the pole, has trouble in his gentle soul. Throughout the world he's viewed with scorn, and so he says: "I toot my horn, and print a mile or two of rot, explaining that I really thought I'd found the pole, until I woke, and found the whole thing was a joke. I can't endure," says Dr. Cook, "the cold, disgusted, scornful look of those I meet, who whisper 'Shame,' and talk about a bunko game and say I'd prove I had some worth by falling off the merry earth. But when they read my sad appeal, and realize how tough I feel, and know how I regret my breaks, they may forgive my little fakes and take me to their hearts once more, and salve me where my wounds are sore." If old Doc Cook would stow his jaw and get a sawbuck and a saw, or buy a plow and hit the soil, and get right down to honest toil, he'd get a better chance to earn the boon for which he seems to yearn. The world will pardon any jay who'll shed his coat and work all day; but it grows weary of the skate who's talking early, talking late, who tries to win the love of men with his jawbone and a fountain pen.—Walt Mason.
